

ASML.com Mobile

Keep in touch wherever you are

There are many places in the world and travel situations where broadband wired or wireless Internet access is not available but mobile phone networks are. These networks are ubiquitous, thanks to more than three billion cell-phone users, and usually allow mobile browsing subject to roaming agreements.

For greater convenience and wider coverage, the ASML.com mobile website offers a limited but growing amount of content for cell-phones and other wireless devices. That means ASML can offer you information almost anywhere, and especially while you are on the move.

How do I get the mobile site?

To visit ASML.com on your cell phone or PDA, simply type in our standard URL and the website will automatically recognize your browser, providing an appropriate user interface for your mobile device. To see a preview on your computer, visit our (mobile website).

What content is available?

Currently we offer the latest ASML news, up-to-date financial information, details on upcoming events and contact information. As mobile networks continue to offer faster and more affordable web connections, and phones offer larger displays, we will bring more desktop features to our mobile website, including multimedia and interactive content.